‘SHAKESPEARE IN LOVE’

Saba Chabukashvili and Jack Heckler rehearse Madison Theatre’s production of “Shakespeare in Love.”

MCHS play to run Thursday through Sunday

BY BOB DEMAREE

“Shakespeare in Love” — the fictionalized story of how William Shakespeare came to write “Romeo and Juliet” — will be performed by Madison Threatre this weekend at Opal Sherman Auditorium.

The play, adapted in 2014 from the 1998 movie that won seven Oscars, including Best Picture, will be performed Thursday and Friday at 7 p.m., Saturday at 2:30 p.m. and 7 p.m., and Sunday at 2:30 p.m.

The play will be performed by students in Aaron Kelsey’s Advanced Theatre class at Madison Consolidated High School with Saba Chabukashvili and Jack Heckler sharing the role of Will Shakespeare and Violet Reetz and Mia Mires sharing the role of Viola De Lesseps.

“Shakespeare in Love” is based on the screenplay by Marc Norman and Tom Stoppard, and was adapted for stage by Lee Hall.

In the story, Shakespeare is faced with writer’s block and a deadline for his new play when he encounters Viola, a woman who would stop at nothing to appear in his next play even though women at the time were prohibited from acting. Through all of that, Will and Viola fall in love, although Viola’s father had committed her to marry Lord Wessex, which prevented Will and Viola from being together.

Lead actors (from left) Mia Mires, Jack Heckler, Saba Chabukashvili and Violet Reetz will play Will Shakespeare and Viola De Lesseps in this week’s production of “Shakespeare in Love.”

The play provides romance and drama, but there are also comedic elements as it weaves its way toward Shakespeare’s creation of “Romeo and Juliet.”

The production presented several challenges to the young actors.

“We have to switch from modern English to Shakespearean language,”

Hanover hears overview on changes to building, zoning

BY BOB DEMAREE

Hanover Building Inspector and Ordinance Officer Rick Schnebelt presented an overview on the operation of that office to Hanover Town Council last Tuesday including possible updates to fees, revisions in the way services are defined and a requirement that contractors register with the city.

Schnebelt said the overall goal is to more effectively manage the Building and Zoning Office and that fee changes would make Hanover more consistent with surrounding communities.

He suggested requiring all contractors, developers and sub-contractors with building projects in Hanover be required to register with the town. Schnebelt said requiring registration for any building project or extensive remodeling project is a way to protect

Animal board plans more active role in decisions

BY BOB DEMAREE

The Jefferson County Animal Control Advisory Board discussed plans last week to take a more active role in policy decisions for the animal shelter as a new shelter director takes over later this month.

A week earlier, the advisory board recommended Lindsay Stultz-Weyer, the current Animal Control Officer for Switzerland County, be hired for the position, and County Commissioners approved that hiring Thursday.

At Wednesday’s advisory board meeting, Holly Toler, assistant manger of the Jefferson County Animal Shelter, fielded several questions and suggestions from people in attendance concerning the shelter’s current operation.

Board member Hannah Fagen noted the suggestion were “policy things the board really needs to review with the new shelter director” rather than asking Toler to begin implementation. She noted Toler is currently following guidelines already in place, and has been “doing a really great job of keeping things under control and helping out as we bring the new director in. We appreciate that so much.”

Fagen said shelter’s recent problems were a reflection of the advisory board being inactive by meeting just four times per year, and said the board’s decision to meet monthly is a “positive step” forward.

Veterans Day closings, delays

Paper to be day later

BY THE COURIER STAFF

With the observance of Veterans Day on Thursday, Nov. 11, and no US Postal Service delivery on that federal holiday, Thursday’s edition of The Madison Courier will be delivered one day later on Friday, Nov. 12.

Saturday’s newspaper is scheduled for normal delivery on Saturday.

In addition to the postal service, the Veterans Day holiday will result in several other schedule adjustments.

City of Madison offices will be closed Thursday along with the city’s Street Department and Transfer Station. Thursday Trash and Recycle will be delayed one day and the Transfer Station will re-open Friday at 8 a.m.

All Jefferson County government offices will be closed Thursday along with Hanover Town Hall.

All Indiana Bureau of Motor Vehicles license branches will be closed Thursday.

Commissioners set 2022 holiday schedule

Junteenth to fall on June 20 this year

BY BOB DEMAREE

As 2021 begins to wind down and 2022 starts coming into view, Jefferson County Commissioners last week approved county holidays and their meeting dates for 2022 at Thursday's meeting.

Juneteenth, a late addition to the county's schedule of holidays in 2021 due to Congressional action, has been added to calendar as a federal holiday in 2022 with June 19 becoming one of five date-specific holidays — the others New Year's Day (Jan. 1), Independence Day (July 4), Veterans Day (Nov. 11) and Christmas Day (Dec. 25) — moving forward.

However, since Juneteenth falls on a Sunday this year, Monday, June 20 will serve as the federal holiday since legislation designated that when June 19 falls on a Saturday or Sunday employees will received the Monday or Friday closest to the date off. Juneteenth is the first new federal holiday since Martin Luther King Jr. Day was declared a holiday in 1986, to be observed on the third Monday in January each year (Jan. 17 in 2022). There are four other Monday holidays — Presidents' Day (Feb. 21), Memorial Day (May 30), Labor Day (Sept. 5) and Columbus Day (Oct. 10). The county will also observe Good Friday (April 15).

The county's calendar also includes two Election Day holidays with the primary set for May 3 and the general election set for Nov. 8.

Thanksgiving, which is always on the fourth Thursday of November, also includes the day after Thanksgiving as a county holiday. Also, there are two days off at Christmas (also accounting for Christmas Eve).

The county's calendar also includes two Election Day holidays with the primary set for May 3 and the general election set for Nov. 8.

The Commissioners will continue to follow their current meeting schedule with sessions on the first and third Thursdays monthly, although it was noted that meetings are subject to change.

In other business the Commissioners:

• Officially hired Lindsay Stultz-Weyer as director of the Jefferson County Animal Shelter to affirm a recommendation made by the Animal Shelter Advisory Board. "She does come highly recommended," said Commissioner Ron Lee, who commended Commissioner Bobby Little for his work on improving conditions at the animal shelter.

• Heard a proposal by Mark Goley, loan officer at Friendship State Bank, concerning a deposit option for the county. Goley offered a free business checking account with no transaction fees at 0.35% interest. "That doesn't sound like a lot but that's very aggressive, competitive in today's market." Additionally, he said they offered a five-year CD with no pre-payment penalty and the bank has the ability to do remote capture on checks and/or if desired they could do a once-a-week cash pickup. The Commissioners said they would take the offer under advisement.

• Approved a $1,644.24 annual contract with Johnson Controls Service for inspection of fire alarm systems, which Commissioners administrative assistant Sarah Morgan noted is mandated by the state.

• Approved a $293,255 contract for engineering work by United Consulting Engineers of Indianapolis concerning replacement of Bridge 107 on Sugan Hollow Road, which County Highway Superintendent Bobby Phillips noted is a five-year project in which the county received a grant from the Federal Highway Administration through the Indiana Department of Transportation.

• Little commended Phillips for work done by the county highway department on Brooksburg-Mannville Road, which led scoring in 2020 as the county gravel road next in line for the asphalt conversion program. Little said he recently had the opportunity to drive the road, and "It was impressive to say the least."

VMI cancels Wonderland to focus on other events

BY BOB DEMAREE

There will not be a Wonderland in the Park event in Madison this holiday season, but efforts are being made to support a more robust A Very Merry Madison Christmas Parade and the new Hanover Tinsel Twinkle Trail in Hanover.

At Monday's meeting of Visit Madison Inc., Lucy Dattilo, the board's president, said there have been no organizational meetings for the Wonderland in the Park event, which began in 2018 and continued through last year.

"It's a big deal letting go of an event," said Dattilo, noting it wasn't an easy decision, but supporting the efforts for strengthening the Christmas events in Madison and Hanover can be beneficial, while also helping VMI deal with storage since it needs to find more space as the Indiana State Museum and Historical Sites (ISMHS) considers how to utilize space in the building they share.

As part of deciding what to do with items, including the decorations from Wonderland in the Park, VMI has been taking inventory.

"All the assets monetarily or physically were donated to this organization," said Dattilo, who expressed VMI is in charge of what happens to the items. She said she would like to donate items back to the persons who initially donated them.

"I would like to give them back to people," Dattilo said, adding that an inventory sheet has been created to identify all items that have been donated from various people. "Let those people use them for whatever they want to use them."

As a result, VMI's board unanimously voted to return the monetary and physical items that they're no longer using for Wonderland in the Park, along with supporting the Madison and Hanover holiday events.

With Hanover planning its inaugural Hanover Tinsel Twinkle Trailto light up the Hanover Community Park from the day after Thanksgiving until New Year's Day, Dattilo said VMI wants to support that event, along with the Merry Madison festivities.

A Very Merry Madison Christmas Parade, organized by the City of Madison, is slated for Dec. 4 beginning at 11 a.m. "This year we're going to have Santa's reindeer — actual live reindeer," said Hannah Fagen, the city's director of Community Relations.

She said after the parade there will be "A Very Merry Madison Christmas Celebration" around the on Broadway Fountain that will incorporate the annual craft show along with providing crafts for children to do. Fagen said there will also be an ice skating rink plus Santa and his reindeer will remain for that celebration.

"We hope people will check that out, then go and do some shopping on Main Street," Fagen said. "This is something new" to add more to the Merry Madison activities.

In addition to lighting up the Community Park throughout December, Hanover, will be hold a craft show Dec. 4 along special activities the weekend of Dec. 17-18.

Meanwhile, the building which houses VMI is owned by the Indiana State Museum and Historical Sites, which Sarah Prasil, VMI's executive marketing director, noted is the only one ISMHS shares with a visitor center and wants to continue that arrangement. "They're trying to get a hold of the space and how it is being utilized. There were renderings from 10 years ago about making this an event center. They were ambitious plans but they never came to fruition," she said.

Dattilo said she "would like see them come to fruition because it increases the importance of this site." She noted that having an event center for the museum "will only benefit us."

In other business:

- Prasil gave an update on the Ohio River Recreational Trail in which she is on the steering committee. The trail extends from Portsmouth, Ohio, to West Point, Kentucky, with Madison being the fourth largest city along the trail. "The people who have spearheaded this project are in love with Madison and Jefferson County, and they come here quite often." said Prasil.
- Erin Kindle, coordinator of the Nights Before Christmas Candlelight Tour of Homes, provided an update on that event which will be the last weekend of November and the first weekend of December. Kindle said volunteers are still needed to help with the event — it takes 150 to 175 volunteers over the two weekends— to stage the tour.
- Brad Walker, property manager for Clifty Falls State Park, an ex-officio member of the VMI board, provide an update on planned improvements that are coming to the park. Walker said the park received $1.6 million from the Governor's deferred maintenance program which he said is "phenomenal — like a career thing." Walker said there will be "considerably noticeable changes" including replacing aged comfort stations and vault toilets at campgrounds, along with work on the trails, and at the Clifty Inn. He said visits to the park are up 42% this year, and noted the park is boosted by it's proximity to Madison. "Madison brings so much to us," he said. "If you haven't eaten here, you have to. If you like music, you have to go here. It's a great relationship."
- Dattilo reported the average hotel occupancy rate in Jefferson County currently is 60% with the Fairfield Inn and Suites, the renovated Eagle Cotton Mill, running at 85% occupancy.

"It's exceeded all their expectations," she said.

Madison firefighters respond to smoke at downtown business

Madison firefighters responded to a report of smoke in the building at the downtown location of Horst's Little Bakery Haus, 843 W. Main St., shortly before 3 p.m. on Monday. There were no injuries and the situation was controlled quickly. No other details were available at presstime.

Keeping in touch is worth the effort

ANNIE LANE
DEAR ANNIE

Dear Annie: This is in response to the letter from someone who said there is no tipping in Europe.

I can categorically say that there is tipping in Europe — if we accept that Britain is in Europe. I am a 43-year-old Brit, and I tip almost every time I eat at a restaurant, unless the service has been bad. Family and friends do the same.

There are various things like a "service charge" that the restaurant might add, but leaving some cash on the table (say, 10%) is a very common occurrence. Some coffee shops even have tip jars to encourage tipping. Ride-sharing and food delivery apps invite you to leave a tip.

Tipping is even debated in the media, particularly regarding ways to make sure the staff, not the owners, get the tips.

We tip the wait staff to help increase their take-home pay, which is low relative to living costs, and to thank them for good service, as has been customary for time immemorial. — Local From Manchester, England

Dear Local From Manchester: Thank you for telling us about tipping in England. I notice you said 10%, which is less than most Americans tip.

Dear Annie: Staying close to family is not easy, but it is really important.

When my mom was younger, I was busy with work, kids, their extracurricular activities, and keeping up with housework and yard work. My spouse worked graveyard shifts for many, many years. And I lived quite far away from my mom, when long-distance bills were a thing we had to budget for.

Now Mom is in her ninth decade and not in the best health. To my dismay, she rarely answers the phone. I make a point of emailing her every week or so, to send her news of our branch of the family.

We recently moved to a warmer, less expensive community as retirees, and I won't be seeing my adult children and the grandchildren every day. I do try to stay in touch, but I also know they have obligations and responsibilities and very busy lives. They don't often initiate a call. So, I'm learning to be OK with that as well.

I email the adults letters to share with their children, and I send "snail mail" to the children, too. I'm the one who has the time and energy to maintain connection at this point in our lives, whether it is with my mom or my offspring.

It's good to tell people you miss them, but it's critical to cultivate relationships, within the family and within your community, to find ways to be less dependent and more socially self-sufficient. — Sandwiched

Dear Sandwiched: Thank you for sharing your experience. You are trying hard to stay in touch with family, and I'm sure your mom and your children appreciate it, even if they are too preoccupied to say so.

Is there hope with my ex-husband?

ANNIE LANE
DEAR ANNIE

Dear Annie: I've been married to a man for 17 years. But not long after the marriage, he stopped being a husband.

At first, we would talk, laugh and have fun. We would do things together, go places and, most of all, we would make love all the time. It's been 10 years since we have had sex.

When we did try, he couldn't fulfill. All he does now is pick fights. He blames me for things and does what he wants. He stays in the bedroom all the time. He yells when I ask for help with something.

He tells me I'm the crazy one. He makes me so mad that I hit him in the pocket and spend money. I know that's not the right thing to do. But I do it.

I ask him if he loves me and wants to stay in our marriage. He says yes, that he still loves me and wants our marriage to work.

However, when his best friend was alive, he would do everything for him, including giving him money. That was because his friend did not want to work. He lived in the mountains at our place until he died.

After that, things got worse. My husband, who I will call "Steve," bought a cabin in the mountains for his best friend's son.

He did this while telling me that we have no money to go away on a trip together.

You should know that I have kids from a previous marriage, and my ex-husband and I helped with some of their college expenses. My current husband, Steve, complained about that, yet at the same time, he is eager to give money to his dead friend's son.

So, do you think this is a marriage or just a convenience? Should I leave and quit wasting time? Please help. — Frustrated Wife

Dear Frustrated Wife: You do not have a spending problem. You have a husband with much bigger problems. Don't let them continue to be your problems. At the same time, getting his side of the story will require marriage counseling, and you both can find out for sure whether the two of you can change to make it a happy marriage.

Dear Annie: I met a really good guy online, and we fell in love through talking and texting before we ever met. Once we met, it was electrical. But we moved in together way too soon. My daughter and her family didn't like him and continuously tried driving a wedge between us.

One day, he had enough and said it was over. It was really hard. I miss him every day. He moved out, but I live in his home. He comes home every other weekend to see me. And to check on the house. He tells me he likes spending time with me, and we talk for hours on the phone and when he is here. A four-hour phone conversation is nothing to us.

The problem is he is dating another woman. She knows about me and our friendship but doesn't like it. I don't think she is good for him, but he doesn't see it. I still love him very much, and I know he loves me. He told me he compares other women to me all the time and it's not fair to them.

I just don't know what to do. — Heartbroken.

Dear Heartbroken: In order to fully heal, you have to detox from him for at least two months. That means don't see him at all and don't have any contact with him. If you two are meant to be, you will be, but allowing him to see other women when it hurts you like it does is not fair to you at all. It's time for you to find happiness and joy with someone who only wants you.

Madison transfers funds for road projects

Campground turns bigger profit in 2021

BY MARK CAMPBELL

Madison City Council adopted two resolutions last week transferring matching funds for highway improvement grants including $405,461 for the city's portion of the soon to be completed surface improvements to Main Street and another $297,500 to be set aside for ongoing maintenance and improvement of the 4.5-mile section of highway from Jefferson Street to the top of Hanover Hill.

Deputy Mayor Mindy McGee said the current Main Street improvement project will soon be wrapping up and bills are starting to arrive for the roughly $1 million project to repair, seal and restripe Main Street from Jefferson Street to Crooked Creek Bridge.

The $297,500 allocation is earmarked for a non-reverting road fund for future maintenance and improvements on that highway including anticipated and unanticipated expenses as well as matches for possible future state and federal grants. The citys expect to receive about $5 million for road improvements in 2025 for the 2026 season and $1.2 million has already been set aside for that match. This money would continue to build on that fund to be ready to address future needs of what is expected to be an overall $15 million project.

The fund was started before McGee took office but she has said she hopes to continue sending surplus dollars into the account so the city can be in the best position possible to take advantage of matching grants and other funding opportunities as well as have funds on hand in the event of an emergency.

"I will keep this in the budget every year as long as I'm doing it," McGee noted.

In other business:

• Received a report by Parks Director Matt Woolard that the City Campground has now closed after a successful season in which the camping area brought in about $30,000 more than 2020.

Woolard said the facility saw a 24% increase in bookings over 2020 and took in $128,490 this year compared to about $97,000 in 2002. Since the city took action earlier this year to make Campground proceeds non-reverting, that will provide an influx of cash and allow more improvements to be made to the facility such as bathroom upgrades and construction of steps from a parking area to the campsites.

Woolard said improving bathrooms is the "No. 1 property" at the campground and that the steps are needed to provide more convienient and safer access to and from a parking area since patrons currently have to walks the roadway around or struggle through a field of rip rap that is placed to mitigate flood erosion.

• Heard the second reading and voted to adopt an amendment to the city's Zoning Map to change 1817 Orchard Street from General Business (GB) to Medium Density Residential (R-8).

• Heard a concern from resident Mike Greco, 1106 East Street, asking to name an access road in his neighborhood to eliminate confusion for delivery vehicles and emergency services. Greco said there have been numerous EMT and fire calls to neighbors living on the road over the years and each time those responding face confusion. He said naming and marking the road would prevent that confusion.

Mayor Bob Courtney said the matter would be best brought before the city's Board of Public Works and Safety, which he serves on and handles such requests and decisions.

• Courtney reported that Gov. Eric Holcomb has extended executive orders related to the COVID-19 pandemic through November but noted Holcomb did not rule out relaxing some guidelines later in the month if infection numbers continue to fall. The mayor reminded the council that Madison is still under his executive orders announced earlier in the pandemic to parallel those by Holcomb.

"It looks like COVID is finally subsiding — although it's still with us — and as it winds down so will the city of Madison's orders," Courtney said.

• Courtney confirmed that the city has sent payment to the Army Corps of Engineers for a major storm water and drainage study aimed at identifying the community's vulnerabilities and developing way to better prepare and protect residents and property from flooding. The study is expected to cost $425,000 with the city paying a 50% match.

• Courtney appointed and received approval to name David Terrell to a vacancy on the City of Madison Port Authority Board.

• City Clerk/Treasurer Rick Berry said the city's 2022 budget is now in the hands of the state and should be certified or sent back to the city for revisions by later this month. If any problems are identified, the city will have December to make changes but the budget must be final and approved by Dec. 31.

said Mires, noting there's not just confusion in the transition, but in getting comfortable enough to speak the Shakespearean language.

Additionally, the students noted the awkwardness of doing romantic scenes with classmates, made more uncomfortable by doing them in front of an audience.

Chabukashvili said he's finding it daunting to act out the emotions of Will and Viola being "truly in love." He spoke of an situation in the play when his character ha to be broken down sad with his character expressing that range of emotions on stage. He described it as "awkward and difficult emotion."

All the actors are veterans and have performed in other productions at Madison Consolidated High School. However, Chabukashvili and Heckler said it's the first time they have had lead roles, and both feel honored to have been selected. Reetz and Mires most recently had roles in last spring's musical 9 to 5, and even though "Shakespeare in Love" is a play, they said there is a short moment when there's some singing.

Bob Demaree

Hailey Caudle (right) works with dog owner Trina Copeland on handling Copeland's two Border Collies that will appear in the play.

For Chabukashvili, he likes how theatre is helping him develop skills to give him confidence when he begins pursuing a career. "It gets me out of my comfort zone, and will help me with speaking and presentations" in a future job he might have.

Tickets cost $15 for adults ($10 for matinees) and $5 for students K-12 if purchased online at our. show/madisontheatre. If purchased at the door, each ticket price is $2 more.

Other actors in the play include Kiara Bauer, Zoe Bullock, Hailey Caudle, Ethan Cline, Leah Combs, Brooklyn Cornelius, Karson Couch, Felicia Fischer, Gracie Gasaway, Lilly Guirgis, Libby Herbert, Tabby Jameison, Izabela Jett, Emma Konkle, Preston Kuppler, Ethan Mack, Dillon Miller, Shelby Priebe, Emma Reilmann, Andie Royce and Danny Winters. The technical crew includes Anneliese Crumley, Isa James and Owen Schmidt.

• "We're excited to get the season started," said Kelsey, noting that Madison Theatre plans three more productions this year beginning Dec. 2-5 with "A Christmas Story" and "My Fair Lady" on March 10-13 followed with "MASH" on April 21-24.

the community's residents and that there needs to be a way to verify that contractors are licensed and have insurance to prevent people from being taken advantage.

"I don't want anyone to call someone to do some work for them, and completely be taken advantage, which has happened," he said.

Additionally, by requiring registration with the town, Schnebelt will have a means to monitor the work that is being done by the contractors, developers and sub-contractors.

No action was taken on the suggestions and any proposed updates to planning and zoning fees and ordinances would need approval of the council by ordinance.

In other business:

• A discussion from past meetings continued concerning some streets in the vicinity of Hanover College, and whether they are owned by the town or the college, and how that impacts services to residents there.

"It's something that's not going away and I don't want it to," said Mefford. "It's important to everybody who lives on these streets ... They need to know who can respond, whether it's snow removal, maintenance of the streets, water leaks and other issues."

• Town Marshal Shane Caldwell reported that the town's SoToxa Field Mobile Tester has already aided in two drug-related arrests. He also noted that the AED (Automated External Defibrillator) has been deployed three times in the last month in life-saving situations. The town currently has two AEDs, and Caldwell would like to get one more so that each of the three officers carry AEDs. Both devices were recent purchases after Council approval.

BOARD

"The board needs to do a full review of our policies for the shelter," Fagen said, "and be more involved and make sure we're going in the right direction, so we don't end up back" in the position where shelter had been. She suggested the board plan a working meeting to review all animal shelter policies.

Board member Warren Auxier said holding monthly advisory board meetings "had been brought up a couple of times in the past, but at that time our shelter director did not see that was necessary and did not want that to take place. We ended up that the shelter director's recommendation had been followed on the quarterly meetings."

Auxier agreed that monthly meetings, along with the board reviewing and updating the animal shelter policies, are the best way to move forward but also added that it is also important to consider how the animal shelter is funded.

"I know County Council on short notice has stepped up and done some additional things this year," Auxier said. "We still have a shelter that is severely under-funded for what needs to be to provide the type of care." Auxier noted shelter operation needs to be government-funded rather than "this concept that we're going to run it on donations. We don't run anything else on donations."

He noted that while donation might be appropriate to fund events like Christmas parades and festivals "we don't ask our police department to go out and get donations for gasoline and bullets" so the animal shelter should not have to either.

Fagen agreed that donations are great for extra amenities for the animals but "operational expenses should be covered by funding. We should not scramble for operational funding."

In other business:

• Toler said the shelter currently has 80 cats and 17 dogs. "My largest concern is with the cats that we're going up instead of down," said Auxier, noting more recently the shelter had 60 cats. "We're losing ground there so there's going to have to be some serious discussions and decisions made."

Toler said they continue to receive litters of kittens coming into the shelter. "When we get three or four litters come in during one week that makes our number jump substantially."

Auxier, who is also president of the Madison-Jefferson County Humane Society, said the humane society has been helping fund spay/neuter at $45 per locally-adopted cat to encourage adoptions. However, if the numbers on cats continue at the current rate "I'm not sure they're going to be in a position to fund the $45 toward every cat" going out of the shelter. "That is a funding change that could be coming up in the next month or two months." He said the Humane Society's shelter has also provided that service to the general public, which he hopes will continue.

"I'm just very concerned that unless there are programs put in place on cats differently than what we're doing now that there are going to have to be some hard and very uncomfortable conversations," Auxier added. "I'm not seeing a clear path around that. One does not want to go that direction, but it's the reality of the situation."

• Voted unanimously to recommend appropriations be made by the county for a concrete slab for kennels. Toler said outdoor kennels are the shelter's most urgent need at this time. Board member Ray Denning, a member of the County Council, said he will discuss the appropriation with the County Council at its meeting Tuesday, and also consider other ways to fund the concrete slab.

Commissioners member Bobby Little had received a cost estimate of $5,600 for the concrete slab. A total of 20 kennels are in the process of being purchased for the animal shelter at a cost of $18,000, which is $2,000 less than the previous estimate for the kennels. Fagen noted the City of Madison is contributing $10,000 toward the kennel purchase.

Former Cubs Center, Miller square off in scrimmage at Hanover

BY DAVID CAMPBELL

Less than nine months ago, Luke Miller and Nick Center were playing for the same team and trying to lead Madison Consolidated High School to a sectional championship. On Friday, the two were back on the floor but this time on opposite sides.

Miller and Center, now collegiate freshmen, made their college debuts in the same game as Miller's Hanover College Panthers hosted Center's Indiana-Southeast Grenadiers in a scrimmage at Hanover as part of the Midwest Tube Mills River Rumble.

The exhibition doesn't count in the standings for either squad but Hanover led the entire way to come away with a 68-53 win. Both former Madison Cubs saw action, with Center scoring four points to go with a rebound in 12 minutes and Miller getting two points and three rebounds in six minutes.

"I was excited to be back here, see everybody and a lot of familiar faces," Center said. "That's my first game I actually got to play in and I thought I did pretty good. I had some nice looks. I could pick it up on defense a little bit but I mean there's always room for improvement."

Center played all of his minutes in the first half and looked sharp before leaving late in the half with an ankle injury. Center said the injury isn't serious and he wasn't limping after the game.

Hanover coach Jon Miller, who is also Luke's dad, was impressed with what he saw from his son's former teammate.

"I thought Nick did a real good job. He had a real good move to the basket on a play that I think we miscommunicated on and looked good," Coach Miller said. "I've known Nick a long time and the one thing that I can say about him is that he is just a terrific teammate and is such a hard-worker. I know he'll do well and he did well tonight."

Jon Miller's own son got into the game in the second half and also played well. Luke made his first shot with ease, but then bricked a 3-point attempt badly on his next attempt, drawing a rare smile from his dad and coach.

"He hit that first shot and hit it with confidence and then he probably should have stopped while he was ahead," coach Miller said with a laugh. "You could tell on that second shot he wasn't sure if he should have taken it and, honestly, it's one of those shots that was only a good shot if it had gone in. But he did rebound it a couple times."

Luke said it was fun to finally get on the floor and he was pleased with the way he performed.

"It was a great experience. The team has been working since we got on campus in late August and it's really it's good to get out there," Luke Miller said. "We definitely have some things to work on. But it was great to see Nick out there and to see a couple of Madison guys that got to play at the next level. So it was

Hanover teams sweep tourneys with shootout wins

BY DAVID CAMPBELL

Hanover College won Heartland Collegiate Athletic Conference men's and women's tournament championships — both in dramatic fashion — in a pair of penalty kick shootouts on Saturday.

The men defeated Defiance in the afternoon, rallying in the shootout to force sudden death where they claimed the win, while the women knocked off top-seeded Mount St. Joseph later that night.

Both Hanover squads now advance to the NCAA Division III Tournament on Saturday. The selection shows were Monday and both teams will travel for their tourney opener.

Hanover's women will travel to Washington University in St. Louis to play Dominican University (18-2-2) of Illinois. Meanwhile, Hanover's men will travel to Emory University in Atlanta and play Old Dominion Athletic Conference champ Lynchburg University (15-4-1) of Virginia. Both games are times to be announced.

MEN

Hanover 1, Defiance 0 (PKs) — Hanover and Defiance battled through 110 scoreless minutes before heading to the penalty kick shootout. That's when things got really interesting.

Defiance (11-12) hit its first four shots of the shootout while Yellow Jackets keeper Orry Killiam stopped one of Hanover's first three attempts.

All the fifth-seeded Yellow Jackets needed to win their first HCAC title was to put one more in the net, but Hanover's Luciano Salemi wasn't about to let that happen. Hanover's sophomore goalie from Indianapolis' Perry Meridian High School stopped the Defiance shot cold and the Panthers' Luke Eppler then connected to send the shootout into sudden death.

Salemi came through with another save and Hanover's Fellipe Busato hammered the winning shot into the net to set off a wild Hanover celebration.

"I knew my team is counting on me. I've done PKs before and I knew I could save one. I just saw that reading and made sure I got it right," said Salemi, who was named most valuable player of the tournament. "I knew my guys were counting on me. It was just taking one PK at a time, one save at a time. The last PK doesn't matter. It's a fresh mindset every time."

The win capped off what was a frustrating game at times for Hanover. The Panthers out-shot Defiance 25-4 — including 9-1 on goal — but couldn't get a ball across the net.

Even more frustrating was the physical play on the field. The game was chippy from the start and got worse as it continued. A total of eight yellow cards were eventually issued in the game with six against the Panthers.

Despite all of that — or maybe even

Mount beats Hanover 22-6 to end Panthers' HCAC hopes

BY THE COURIER STAFF

Hanover's hopes of winning a fourth-straight Heartland Collegiate Athletic Conference football title were dashed Saturday with a 22-6 loss at Mount St. Joseph.

The Panthers were held to just 200 total yards — 140 on the passing of quarterback Matthew Weimer and 60 on the ground.

Mount St. Joseph (6-3, 5-1 HCAC) built a 10-0 lead in the first half and led 13-0 in the third when Hanover scored its only points on a 70-yard pass from Weimer to Jared Frank to cut the lead to 13-6.

The Panthers could get no closer and Mount added two more touchdowns to seal the win.

Weimer was just 7-of-20 passing with an interception while Shawn Coane had 39 yards rushing on 10 attempts. Frank ended up with two receptions for 78 yards.

Defensively, Kyle Treber had 10 tackles, Justin Williamson had nine tackles and Brody Luker had six tackles and two interceptions.

Meanwhile, HCAC front-runner Rose-Hulman remained undefeated in conference play with a 38-14 victory over Franklin and will host Mount St. Joseph this Saturday in the de facto conference championship game.

Hanover, now 5-4 overall and 4-2 in the HCAC, closes out the season at home on Saturday against Franklin in the annual Victory Bell game.

Madison offense struggles again in loss to Franklin Co.

BY JORDAN BEAR

Madison struggled offensively for the second-straight game, falling 58-48 to Franklin County in the Cubs' home opener on Saturday.

After struggling in every offensive category in its season opener against Austin on Wednesday, Madison was hoping to snap out of that offensive funk. But like the earlier loss, the Lady Cubs could mount any kind of offensive threat and Franklin County was able to ride that to victory.

"We had a lot of great looks with shots but they simply wouldn't fall," Madison coach Sonja Bowyer said. "We have our moments where maybe Cam (Cahall) is hot, or Alaina (Kelley), but we have to get to a point where more than one person is in the offensive rhythm. We can call play after play and get good look after good look but you have to hit your layups, your free throws, and knock down some jump shots. I know we're not going to hit all of them but to be good and be successful you have to be able to hit them on a consistent basis."

The start of the game couldn't have gone better for Madison as the Cubs scored on six of their first eight possessions to grab a quick 12-2 lead. However, the Wildcats finally got their groove going to close out the quarter on a 9-1 run and trail 13-11 after one quarter.

Stephanie Hellmann

Madison junior Casey Dyer (4) drives past Franklin County's Kiersten Schell during Saturday's girls basketball game at Madison's Salm Gym.

"We had a great start to the game. We were hitting shots and executing our game plan really well," Bowyer said. "They then went on a really good run as well and we have to be ready to answer those kind of runs. We really struggled to do that tonight. It's a learning process and we have to learn and get better."

The second and third quarters saw Madison's offensive struggles continue and the Cubs trailed 44-36 going into the final period. Madison fought hard in the fourth to try and get back into the game, but couldn't dig out of the hole as the Wildcats closed out the 10-point victory.

Cahall and Casey Dyer both finished with 15 points to lead Madison while Kelley finished with eight points, Cadence Traylor had four points, Mary Johnson had three points and Taylor Lynch chipped in two points.

Madison, now 0-2, will travel to Lawrenceburg tonight before returning home on Friday to host Switzerland County.

REBELS FALL TO RISING SUN

Southwestern's girls basketball team dug itself another deep hole and dropped its second game of the season, 49-41 at Rising Sun in a non-conference matchup on Saturday.

The Rebels trailed 17-12 after the first quarter and 23-17 at halftime before Rising Sun built a 41-27 lead in the third quarter.

Southwestern rallied in the fourth, pulling to within eight but couldn't battle all the way back.

Emma Long scored 13 points to lead Southwestern while Trinity McLain had 11 and Kylie Eccles scored nine.

Southwestern, now 0-2, hosts Oldenburg Academy on Friday in its home opener and hosts West Washington on Saturday.

Hanover volleyball falls to Earlham in HCAC semis

BY THE COURIER STAFF

Hanover College volleyball saw its season end on a hard-fought 3-1 loss to top-seeded Earlham in the Heartland Collegiate Athletic Conference Tournament semifinals on Saturday.

Hanover dropped the first two sets to fall behind early 25-15 and 25-17 but rallied to win the third set 25-18. The fourth set went down to the wire before Earlham held on 25-23 to clinch the win.

Emma Harmon had 11 kills and 11 digs to lead Hanover while Maddie Edwards had 10 kills and four digs, Kelsey Ketcham had 26 assists, 13 digs and six kills, Casey Dunn had 17 digs, Meredith Deckard had 13 kills, and Maggie Schweitzer had 11 digs.

Transylvania later knocked off Earlham 3-1 in the finals to win its third-straight HCAC crown.

Hanover ends the season with a 17-10 record.

Anderson wins two for Hanover swimmers at Franklin

BY THE COURIER STAFF

Hanover's swim teams competed in a dual meet at Franklin on Saturday with the men falling 167-20 and the women losing 169-33.

Ilys Anderson picked up both of Hanover's wins in the women's 50-yard freestyle in 27.38 and the women's 100 freestyle in 59.46.

Other top finishes for the Hanover women were: Alaina Simmons, second, 50 free, 27.46 and fourth, 100 free, 1:00.80; Megan Brandt, third, 200 free, 2:15.53 and third, 100 back, 1:12.05; and Kelli Brock, fourth, 100 back, 1:12.33.

Top finishes for the Hanover men were: Will Morgan, second, 200 IM, 2:14.91; James Moll, third, 200 free, 2:00.46 and third, 100 back. 1:01.80; and Dustin Wilson, third, 50 free, 23.91 and third, 100 free, 52.75.

Hanover hosts Anderson at Southwestern High School on Saturday.

Burrow's pick-6 sets tone in Bengals' loss to Browns

BY TOM WITHERS
ASSOCIATED PRESS

CINCINNATI — Just a yard from the end zone, Joe Burrow dropped back, cocked his arm and fired a pass he's made countless times.

Another touchdown.

This one, Cleveland's.

Burrow's pass to rookie Ja'Marr Chase was intercepted by Denzel Ward, who returned it 99 yards for a stunning touchdown that set the tone for the Browns' 41-16 thumping of the Cincinnati Bengals on Sunday.

Burrow threw two picks and was sacked five times. Chase had a rough day with a couple key drops and a fumble as the Bengals (5-4) lost their second straight and were humiliated at home by an AFC North rival.

"I didn't play very well," said Burrow, the Ohio native who fell to 0-3 against the state's other team. "If I play better we're in that game, we have a chance to win. I just didn't play well. That's all there is to it."

If only it was that simple.

Cincinnati was outplayed in all three phases by Cleveland, which had its most complete game this season after parting ways with receiver Odell Beckham Jr.

The Bengals were just the opposite.

Starting with Ward's shocking pick-6, they were chasing the Browns and not gaining any ground.

In the final minutes, Burrow, who has thrown 22 interceptions, including five in his last four games, was replaced by backup Brandon Allen — a concession of surrender in a game that got away from the Bengals.

"A lot of growing is going to come from that," said running back Joe Mixon, who scored two TDs. "A lot of lessons to be learned. It's a disappointment for us. That isn't our standard. We have to get better, that's all it is."

The day began with promise for Cincinnati as Burrow quickly drove the Bengals into Cleveland territory on their first possession with pinpoint passes to Tee Higgins, Joe Mixon and Chase, his normally reliable wingman.

After being sacked for an 8-yard loss on 3rd-and-goal at Cleveland's 7, Burrow got a reprieve and another chance to cap the drive with a TD when the Browns were called for a penalty.

From the 3, Burrow looked to hit Chase in the right corner, but Ward jumped the route and made the pick. Cleveland's cornerback took off down Cincinnati's sideline, cut back around the 40-yard line to avoid Burrow and drop him awkwardly before scoring a TD that jump-started the Browns.

"He made a good play," Burrow said of Ward, his teammate for three seasons at Ohio State. "I left it inside a bit. If you do that to Denzel, he's going to make you pay."

Ward, who needed oxygen from his 100-yard dash, was asked if he had intercepted Burrow when they practiced as Buckeyes.

"I'm sure I did," he deadpanned.

The Bengals had been riding high when they thrashed the division-leading Baltimore Ravens 41-17 two weeks ago.

They stumbled badly last week in losing 34-31 to the New York Jets, and now head into their bye week following another flat performance.

Coach Zac Taylor isn't worried about his team's confidence despite its loss of momentum.

"People are going to try and paint a picture of overreaction when you lose two games in a row," Taylor said. "We're not. We're going to correct those things that we need to correct and use this bye week to get our bodies back and make sure we're healthy going into the back half of the season."

No. 9 Michigan tops Indiana 29-7, bounces back from 1st loss

BY LARRY LAGE
ASSOCIATED PRESS

ANN ARBOR, Mich. — Hassan Haskins had to carry a heavier burden in the backfield because Blake Corum was injured. He delivered.

Haskins ran for a career-high 168 yards and a touchdown, helping No. 9 Michigan bounce back from its first defeat with a 29-7 win over Indiana on Saturday night.

"It was a different feeling, but I had to get the job done," Haskins said.

The Wolverines (8-1, 5-1 Big Ten) were coming off a deflating defeat, blowing a 16-point, third-quarter lead in a 37-33 loss to rival Michigan State last week.

"That's out of our control, but going forward, we said, somebody has to pay and it just happened to be Indiana," Michigan defensive end David Ojabo said.

The fifth-ranked Spartans lost for the first time this season earlier in the day, 40-29 to Purdue, and fell into a second-place tie with Michigan behind No. 6 Ohio State in the Big Ten East Division.

The Hoosiers (2-7, 0-6) have lost five straight games, collapsing in a season that started with them hoping to contend for at least a division title.

"Our expectations were high in the beginning, and this isn't what we expected," linebacker Micah McFadden said. "So, it hurts."

Haskins had 27 carries, matching a career high, without Corum on the field for much of the game. Corum, who has been among the nation's leading rushers all season, ran once for 4 yards and dropped a perfect pass in the flat for the second straight week before leaving the game.

"I don't think it's serious," coach Jim Harbaugh said. "I don't know if it's mild. Somewhere less than serious."

Haskins' 2-yard touchdown run early in the second quarter gave Michigan a 10-f0 lead. Chris Childers 1-yard touchdown run pulled the Hoosiers within three, but they couldn't get closer.

Cade McNamara was 10 of 18 for 168 yards with two touchdown passes to Luke Schoonmaker that helped the Wolverines pull away. The tight end took advantage of opportunities with Erick All out of the lineup with an injury. Michigan's Cornelius Johnson had five receptions for 108 yards.

Indiana's latest loss makes them ineligible for a bowl, ending its chances of playing in three straight postseasons for the first time since the late 1980s.

"There's a lot of tears in there," coach Tom Allen said. "But there's also a whole lot of resolve in there, guys who gave a whole lot to this program and have a lot of character themselves."

Donoven McCulley was 10 of 24 for 88 yards and ran 14 times for 37 yards for the Hoosiers.

Hooker's 4 TDs help Tennessee top No. 18 Kentucky 45-42

BY GARY B. GRAVES
ASSOCIATED PRESS

LEXINGTON — Even for a team that's embraced a fast pace, Tennessee's efficiency against No. 18 Kentucky was something to behold.

Especially the little time Hendon Hooker needed to move the Volunteers up and down the field.

Hooker threw a career-high four touchdown passes, including a 6-yard insurance score to Cedric Tillman early in the fourth quarter, and Tennessee held off the Wildcats 45-42 on Saturday night to halt a two-game skid.

The Volunteers (5-4, 3-3 Southeastern Conference) emerged from a bye to strike quickly in a back-and-forth game between border rivals that totaled 1,073 yards combined. They needed just four plays and 37 seconds to score their first two TDs, drove 35 yards in 16 seconds for a go-ahead field goal before halftime, and used only 37 seconds on the way to another go-ahead touchdown in the third quarter.

The Vols were outgained 612-461 and held the ball for just 13:52, but made the most of it before a sellout crowd in hostile territory. Many spectators had barely settled into seats when Hooker tossed his first TD pass to Javonta Payton on the game's first snap.

"We scored extremely quickly on some big plays and even when we didn't, we move the ball down into plus-red zone territory and end up fumbling," Tennessee coach Josh Heupel said. "It's just really unique how the game really unfolded."

Hooker's final TD to Tillman with 11:40 remaining proved to be the biggest as Kentucky (6-3, 4-3) got within a field goal on Will Levis' 24-yard touchdown toss to Izayah Cummings. The Wildcats got one last chance after Chase McGrath's missed field goal but couldn't take advantage, turning the ball over on downs with 29 seconds left.

It was Tennessee's first win over a ranked opponent since 2018, also against Kentucky.

Alontae Taylor came up with Tennessee's biggest defensive play with 6:23 left in the third, reading Levis perfectly to jump a route for a 56-yard interception return for a touchdown that gave the Volunteers their first 10-point lead.

"I knew I had the flats the whole time, so I just baited him into that," Taylor said. "As soon as I saw his shoulders turn, I just drove on it because I knew that was my responsibility and I had help over top."

Kentucky pulled to 38-35, but Hooker answered with a 6-yard scoring pass to Tillman that provided breathing room. The Wildcats dropped their third consecutive game.

Hooker completed 15 of 20 passes for a career-best 316 yards with TDs to Javonta Payton, Velus Jones Jr., tight end Jacob Warren and Tillman. Jabari Small rushed for a 37-yard TD as Tennessee bounced back from losses to then-No. 13 Mississippi and then-No. 4 Alabama, avoiding consecutive losses to Kentucky for the first time since 1976-77.

Pacers hold off Kings for first win in Sacramento since 2018

BY MICHAEL WAGAMAN
ASSOCIATED PRESS

SACRAMENTO, Calif. — Caris LeVert scored 22 points and the Indiana Pacers held on after blowing a 15-point lead, beating the Sacramento Kings 94-91 on Sunday night.

Domontas Sabonis had 17 points and 10 rebounds to help Indiana to its first win in Sacramento since 2018. T.J. McConnell added 17 points and Chris Duarte scored 15 in the Pacers' first road win of the season.

"All together, not just down the stretch, we really followed the game plan," LeVert said. "We kind of slowed the game down a little bit and anchored to our defense. It paid dividends for us."

Indiana shot well most of the game and led 69-54 midway through the third quarter, but got only one bucket the rest of the period, allowing the Kings to creep back in.

Sacramento trailed most of the game before opening the fourth quarter with an 11-1 run and taking a three-point lead. Indiana responded with 10 straight points.

McConnell's bucket down low put the Pacers up 93-88 before Tyrese Haliburton's 3-pointer cut the gap to two points with 1:28 remaining.

The teams exchanged multiple misses, and Haliburton missed the rim on a deep 3-point attempt late before McConnell made one of two free throws with 2.5 seconds left.

The Pacers then intercepted the ensuing inbounds pass attempt.

"A very determined group of guys that were in a bend-but-don't-break mode," Pacers coach Rick Carlisle said. "The last two or three stops were really symbolic of who we need to be as a team defensively. Grit, physical, smart, not fouling and then being able to come up with rebounds."

Harrison Barnes scored 22 points for the Kings. Haliburton, De'Aaron Fox and Buddy Hield scored 17 apiece.

"Tyese with an open 3 for game at the end, I'll take that in any close game," Kings coach Luke Walton said. "We know we have a long way to go still. This one hurts."

Two nights after setting a franchise record with 22 3-pointers, the Kings shot 10 of 34 beyond the arc.

Hield ended the first quarter with a buzzer-beating 3-pointer from just inside the midcourt line. Hield stole the ball as Indiana was setting up for a final shot, then spun around a defender before launching his shot.

The Kings made another late shot before halftime, when Haliburton's layup with six-tenths of a second remaining cut the Pacers' lead to 48-43.

MCCONNELL'S IMPACT

With Malcolm Brogdon missing a second consecutive game, McConnell made his fifth start and came up big down the stretch with five points in the final four minutes. "He played fearless and that's one of the characteristics that we're going to have to have as a team," Carlisle said.

O'Connell, Bell help Purdue take down No. 5 Spartans, 40-29

BY MICHAEL MAROT
ASSOCIATED PRESS

WEST LAFAYETTE — Purdue coach Jeff Brohm already had a reputation for running trick plays — and for leading his unranked team to upsets of top-5 opponents.

His Boilermakers added to that legacy on Saturday.

Aidan O'Connell matched his career high by throwing three touchdown passes — including one on a reverse, flea-flicker screen pass to Jackson Anthrop — and Purdue toppled a Big Ten giant for the second time this season, beating No. 5 Michigan State 40-29 and leaving the conference without an unbeaten team.

"We run a multitude of trick plays, you guys have seen that," Brohm said. "This is one we do, kind of double reverse stuff, you know, throw it behind the line of scrimmage. To be honest with you, I stole it from a YouTube video of a high school team years ago and the first time we ran it, it went for a touchdown."

For Brohm, exotic gadget plays have been a regular feature even before he arrived on Purdue's campus. In fact, his innovative play-calling was one reason the Boilermakers hired him from Western Kentucky after the 2016 season.

This time, the beautifully executed gimmick — O'Connell handed off to Anthrop on an end-around, who gave it to receiver Milton Wright on a reverse, who pitched it back to O'Connell, who tossed a screen to Anthrop — resulted in a 39-yard touchdown that set the stage for something bigger.

The score put the Boilermakers ahead 21-7, and Purdue went on to control most of the game against the previously unbeaten Spartans (8-1, 5-1 Big Ten, No. 3 CFP).

Purdue (6-2, 4-2), pulled off its second top-five upset in four weeks, became bowl-eligible for the first time in three years and extended its FBS record for wins by an unranked team over a top-five foe to 17 — three of them under Brohm.

The Boilermakers shocked No. 2 Iowa 24-7 on the Hawkeyes' home field last month. Purdue also stunned then-No. 2 Ohio State 49-20 on Oct. 20, 2018.

This time, Anthrop, O'Connell and record-breaking receiver David Bell savored the celebration as the lights flashed, the band played and thousands of fans rushed the field.

"It was just a great day for us," Brohm said.

The Spartans' first loss to Purdue since 2006 could have implications across college football. They fell one game behind No. 6 Ohio State in the Big Ten East Division. No. 2 Cincinnati could be a beneficiary, ascending in the esteem of the College Football Playoff selection committee. And the Big Ten could miss the playoff entirely for the third time in five years.

Miley claimed by Cubs; Giants turn down Cueto

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

NEW YORK — Pitcher Wade Miley was claimed off waivers by the Chicago Cubs from Cincinnati on Friday, a surprising cost-cutting move by the Reds.

A left-hander who turns 35 on Nov. 13, Miley was 12-7 with a 3.37 ERA in 28 starts, and he threw his first career no-hitter in a 3-0 win at Cleveland on May 7.

His $15 million, two-year contract includes a $10 million option for next season with a $1 million buyout.

Chicago is looking for pitching after going 71-91. The Cubs' 4.87 ERA ranked 27th among the 30 teams.

Miley is 97-92 with a 4.15 ERA in 11 years in the majors. He also has pitched for Arizona, Boston, Seattle, Baltimore, Milwaukee and Houston.

A slew of waiver claims saw San Francisco get right-hander Hunter Harvey from Baltimore.

Outfielder Tim Locastro went to Boston from the Yankees, infielder Andrew Velazquez to the Los Angeles Angels from the Yankees, outfielder Greg Allen to Pittsburgh from the Yankees right-hander Jharel Cotton to Minnesota from Texas, left-hander Ryan Sherriff to Philadelphia from Tampa Bay, outfielder Austin Dean to San Francisco from St. Louis and left-hander Francisco Perez to Washington from Cleveland.

Among potential free agents, All-Star third baseman José Ramírez's $12 million's option was exercised by Cleveland. The Indians declined a $7 million option on catcher Roberto Pérez, who gets a $450,000 buyout.

it was a good experience."

If there was a negative to the night it was the fact that Center and Miller didn't get a chance to hit the floor at the same time. Both were looking forward to the chance to guard each other.

"I told him that I was going to check him into the wall but I guess there's always next year," Center smiled.

"I was a little bit disappointed but I'm just glad we both got in and both got to have this experience," Miller said. "It's pretty cool to be able to play against each other."

As for the game itself, other than a brief moment midway through the first half, Hanover was in complete control. The Panthers scored the first 12 points of the game, led 38-24 at halftime and by as many as 26 in the second half before IUS made a late run to make the game close.

Ty Houston scored 20 points and had 12 rebounds to lead Hanover while Matt Munoz had 17 points and eight rebounds.

Hanover opens the season for real on Wednesday when it travels to Wabash. The Panthers then travel to Boyce on Friday before heading to Indiana State on Sunday.

because of it — Hanover coach Matt Wilkerson was thrilled with the way his team stepped up to secure the win.

"I gotta give credit to Defiance with the run they went on and to their players and coaches. That was a very, very difficult game," Wilkerson said. "You get to penalties and I don't know what the science is to it or isn't. I know there's a lot of pressure in the position we're in and our goalkeeper and our players came up big and took care of what we need to get to take care of."

Hanover, now 14-4-1, heads to the NCAA Tournament for the first time since 2019 and just the third time in school history.

WOMEN

Hanover 2, Mount St. Joseph 1 (PKs) — Unlike the men's game, Hanover was able to take an early lead in its championship showdown with Mount St. Joseph. But just like the men, the Panther women needed a penalty kick shootout to win their first HCAC crown since 2016.

Maggie Day staked second-seeded Hanover (14-1-3) to a 1-0 lead just five minutes into the game and held that advantage until there was five minutes to play and Mount's Catherine Hatfield scored the equalizer to send the game into overtime. Twenty minutes later the two teams were still tied 1-1 and the game headed to PKs.

Hanover goalie Maggie Hinegardner, who was named the tournament MVP, stopped Mount's first shot but the Lions eventually built a 3-2 lead in the shootout. But Hinegardner got another stop and Bryn Rolfsen tied the score 3-3. After Mount's final attempt missed by hitting the bar, Hanover's Anna Smith nailed the game-winner.

Mount St. Joseph (11-8-3) held a 14-12 advantage in overall shots, but shots on goal were tied 7-7. Hinegardner had six saves in the win.
